District of Columbia.

Mr. Congor of Iows raised the point of order that this changed existing law. Mr. Perkins of Kansas claimed that it was affirmation of existing law, and the Chairman overruled the point of order. The Clerk again had plain sailing until the following section was reached:

That hereafter all legal services connected with the producement of titles to sites for public buildings shall be randered by United States District Attorneys and without extra compensation therefor.

without extra compensation therefor.

Tom Reed wanted the last five words stricken out. He thought that the attorneys should be paid for their services.

Mr. Randail gave his reasons for reporting the proviso. He said that in Brooklyn lawyers had drawn over $5.000 for securing the title for land for a public building. In Baltimore $5.500 had been paid. In Hannibal $800, and in Pensacola $527. It was an expense that was constantly growing, and we wanted to break it un. "Were the foes not just?" Mr. Reed inquired. "No." replied Mr. Randall. "They were outrageously high. We must cut off this extravagence."

Tageously high.

This little tilt secured the attention of all the lawyers in the House, and there are lots of them. Many of them salled in on behalf of their fraterpity. Mr. Reed made the point of order viatthe measure repealed existing laws. Mr. Randall, fearing that the point would be sustained, agreed to strike out the words. He said that he hadino protection and was forced to submit.

said that he hadino protection and was forced to submit.

Gen. Spinola then moved to amend so as to limit the fees in bach case to $250. Mr. Reed thought that if this was done the Government would get only $250 worth of work out of the lawyers. In further debate Mr. Spinola called attention to the fact that the $5,000 snared in Brooklyn was secured under a Republican Administration. As a similar Administration was coming into power, he assumed that the Republicans desired to retain their claims to each fees. The lawyers then all turned in and voted down his amendment. So the "outrageous fees," as Mr. Randall termed them, still remain.

Mr. Reed—But if you won't interfere for a moment there will be a law.
Mr. Randail—But I must trest all alike, and however much I may sympathize with the object of the gentloman's amendment. I am compelled to perform what I consider my duty under the circumstances and make the point of order, as the Committee on Appropriations has taken from me the power to do otherwise.
Mr. lieed—But it has not taken the power to be alient from you.

Mr. Reed—But it has not taken the power to be slient from you.

The situation was so ridiculous that Tom Reed himself shook with laughter and the whole House rippied with merriment.

"If the gentleman." continued Mr. Randall, "all the gentleman." continued Mr. Randall, "will get the Committee on Commerce to make a report in this connection, the House and the Benate to act jointly on the bill and the President to sign it, just as soon as there is a law for it the gentleman will find me providing an appropriation with aincrity."

Mr. Reed—That is to say that the gentleman won't object if it will be futile. I want him to refrain from interposing an objection now, when his objection is effective. This is recommended by the Lighthouse Board it should be remembered.

Mr. Immill—There is no man in the House menaed by the Lighthouse of the House remembered.

Mr. liandall—There is no man in the House that I would run to do a favor for quicker than for the centleman from Maine.

Mr. Reed—This is the right time.

that I would run to do a favor for quicker than for the sentieman from Maine.

Mr. Reed—This is the right time.

Here the merriment was uncontrollable. Mr. Reed continued: I may be permitted to say that I am sorry that the sonse of public duty on the part of the gontleman from Pennsylvania has been so strong." [tenewed laughter.] He then withdrew his amendment.

When the section relating to the life-saving service was under consideration. Dr. Davis of Fall River secured an appropriation of $15.000 for a station at Point Barrow. It will probably save thelives of many whalers.

In passing the appropriation for the revenue cutter service, Gov. Dingley got in an amendment applying some of it to the protection of the seal fisheries in Behring's Sea and the waters of Alaska.

The committee next struck the appropriation for engraving and printing. It ran as follows:

For waves of plate printers at plees rates to be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury, not to exceed the rates usually past for such work, including the wares of printers assistants at $1.50 a day sach, when amployed, and for royally at not exceeding one cent per thousand impressions for use of scenary are the proposition stirred up a furious discussion of the Teasury.

The proposition stirred up a furious discussion of the search when stirred and the search when such that the search when search as the search of the Treasury.

royalty at not exceeding one cent per thousand impressions for use of steamp site printing machines. $35m.dix to be sapsuided under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The proposition stirred up a furious discussion. The House has already passed a bill discarding steam presses in the Bureau of Engraving and Frinting. That bill is corralled in the Senate, and it seems to be generally understood that it will not see daylight. The royalty for the use of the machines is now $1 per thousand sheets. The appropriation reduces the $1 to one cent.

Mr. Landes of Illinois raised the point of order that the new proviso changed existing laws. Mr. Randall began an explanation, and Mr. Landes asked him whether the effect of the proviso would not be to prevent the use of the steam bank note presses altogether. Mr. Randall acknowledged that it would. He said that the House had already expressed itself against their use. After a long discussion the Chair everuled the point of order.

Mr. Landes then moved to strike out the words. At not exceeding one cent per thousand impressions." He said that the Government now owns eighteen of these steam presses. Many notes were printed upon them. The Buperintendent of the Eureau of Engraving and Printing says that if their use is discontinued it would entail a coast of $102,000 a year. Hand printing was that if their use is discontinued it would entail a coast of $102,000 a year. Hand printing wand does not better. Bankers and others, he said declared that the work of the steam presses is perfectly satisfactory.

Lam. Mc. Adoo replied. He said that the Superintendent in his estimate omitted the royalty and the cost of the patent, the coat of the steam prower, and money lost by waste of paper. He claimed that the steam printing was ar inferior to the band printing. He read a letter from Chief Bell of the Secret Service to Senator Hiscock in which he said that the work of the steam presses made counterfelting easy, on account of their deficient workmansh. We are tempining the cr one cent to fifty cents per thousand impressions.

Here Gen. Wheeler, who had engineered the bill discarding the steam presses through the House, rushed down the aisle. He was Chairman of a committee appointed to look into the work done by the steam presses. He had been at work below stairs, and had just heard what was going on. He made a telling speech. He said that Gen. Butterworth had soared so high that it would apparently take a long time for him to get down to the real business under consideration. He repelled his attacks on labor organizations, and said that workingmen had as good a right to organize as the Oil Trust, Sugar Trust, and other great combinations of capital.

Messrs. Blount, Cummings, and others defended the action of the committee, and the House adjourned in time to save the expense of lighting the nest of gaslights above the glass ceiling.

LIVE WASHINGTON TOPICS.

The Blodgett-Riddleberger Pair Saved the

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.-After Senators Riddleberger and Blodgett explained in the Sen-Senate Tariff bill, the Republicans were quite startled at the thought of how near they came to making a complete political flasco with the measure. Riddleberger now says that he did not really mean to pair in favor of the bill, but did so through a misunderstanding, having intended to vote against it. The members of the Finance Committee feel that they passed over a very dangerous precipice, and they have bardly dared to congratulate themselves yet. Messrs, Allison and Aldrien, who did the bulk still remain.

The next man to create a stir was Frank Lawier of Cheago. He wanted $50,000 aupropriated for the preservation of the Chicago custom House. Mr. Randall fought hard to prevent this, but the Chicago man stirred up the House and secured it.

When the appropriation for light houses, beacons, and fog signals were reached, Tom Reed tried to secure $37.50 for the construction of new building for the use of the keeper of Bear Island light, Maine. Mr. Randall adoit turned the tables upon him.

"I make the point of order on the amendment," he said, that it is not in accordance with existing law.

Mr. Reed—But it snot in accordance with existing law.

Mr. Reed—But at there is no law for it, I cannot make a distinction.

Mr. Reed—But if you won't interfere for a moment there will be a law. of the work on the bill, are almost broken down wanted to knife the bill. There was a combination of four Republicans whose votes were controlled absolutely by Senator Quay, and had be given the word, which he came very nearly doing the bill would have been budly defeated. Quay came near unlocking the combination, but the pressure from Fennsylvania manufacturers and the tear of the effect upon the party, particularly the former reason, held him back. Up to the very last moment Quay was undetermined, and Allison, Aldrich, and other colleagues were almost sick with anxiety until President Ingalis announced the vote. Then they recovered, but suffered a sharp relapse when Riddleberger made his crack. Now they feel safe and modestly receive congratulations. Mr. Quay has gone to Florida to fish far tarpon, the members of the Figance Committee are taking a rest preparatory to passing the bill in the House soon after the new Congress comes in.

Considerable surprise was expressed in the Senate last night at the sudden collapse of the Senate last night at the sudden collapse of the Senate last night at the sudden collapse of the Democratic opposition to the Republican Tariff bill and the early hour at which the final vote was taken. At 7 in the evening word was sent out that the session would last at least until midnight. At half-past 7 Senator Butler vainly endeavored to secure an agreement as to the time when the presentation of amendments should cease and the final vote taken, yet at 8 o'clock the Senate had adjourned. The secret of the sudden termination of the session is that Senator Cockerill have the first of two large receptions last night. He had made elaborate preparations, and was very anxious to have the Senator Rockerill have the first of two large receptions least night. He had made elaborate preparations, and was very anxious to have the Senator sattend. Just before 8 o'clock as Republican Senator, who was interested in making a success of Mr. Cockerill's party, went over to the Democrate to offer so many useless amendments, all of which would be promptly voted down, and they might just as well stop and let everybody go to the reception. Cockerill thought so, too, and so he went among his friends and begged them to desist. His liepublican colleague did the same with the men of his party, and the result was the sudden adjournment. Nearly every Senator on both sides of the chamber shook hands later with Mr. and Mrs. Cockerill. Democratic opposition to the Republican Tariff

The first of the new Senators who will be sworn in on March 4 appeared in the Senate Chamber to-day. This was James McMillan of Chamber to-day. This was James McMillan of Datroit, who has been elected as the successor of his townsman. Thomas W. Falmer. He spent half an hour on the floor and in the cloak room, and was presented to nearly all the Republican Benators and some of the Demorats. In personal appearance Mr. McMillan will be an attractive addition to the Senate and in point of good looks will be a rival of Senators Butler. Hiscook, and the other handsome men of that body. He is tail and siender, with curly gray hair, carefully dressed, heavy moustache and small goates, bright eves anapping through speciacles, and more of the general air of a New Yorker than a citizen of the West. Mr. McMillan resembles the late President Arthur a some respects, particularly in the matter of dress, being at all times clad in the height of fashion. He and the junior New York Senator will undoubtedly be the best dressed men in the Senate after March 8. Mr. McMillan has been in New York a great deal lately, and returned there this evening after spending twenty-four hours in Washington. He only came here to look the ground over, being unequainted with Washington He only came here to look the ground over, being unequainted with Washington. He only came here to look the ground over, being unequainted with Washington He only came here to look the ground over, take part in the Senate debute. He will return here on March 1, to attend the extra session of the Senate, and has engaged the suite of rooms which President-elect Harrison will occupy from the time of his arrival in Washington until he takes possession of the White House, after the inaugural ceremonies.

Senator Quay left to-day for Fiorida, to be absent until the latter part of February. He desired the Associated Press to announce that he would oppose the appointment to office of any man who applied to him for assistance prior to March 4.

The Appropriations Committee of the House has decided to offer amendments to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, now under considera-tion by the Hones, appropriating $500,000 to reimburse the heirs of Capt. Each for improve-ments made in the channel of the Mississian River at South Pass, and allowing $180,000 for the continuance of the work of surveying and locating sites for irrigating the arid lands of the West.

Messra. Spinola and Belden, with Lieut. Hunker, the officer in charge of the waters of New York harbor, strongly urged upon the committee the advisability of making an appropriation of $60,000 for the construction of a boat to be stationed five miles out to sea off New York to act as a check upon illegal dumping of refuse in the harbor. It is proposed that all dumping boats shall be required to breach a certificate issued on board of this vessel as proof that they have been the proper distance out to sea before payment is made to them. In this way the boats will be prevented from dumping their garbage near to the shore.

Senator Hale reported this morning from the Census Committee, with several important amendments, the House bill to provide for the amendments, the House bill to provide for the taking of the eleventh census of the United States. Provision is made for an enumeration of the surviving veterans of the war of the rebellion, the organizations to which they belong, and their length of service during the war. The population schedule is to include an inquiry relating to the number of negroes, mulattees, quadroons, and octoroons. Statistics are to be taken relating to the recorded in deptedness of private corporations and individuals, and to animals not on farms.

Inquiry at the Treasury Department indi-Bank Examiner at New York caused by the resignation of Mr. Snyder and the vacancy in the office of Chief of the Special Agents of the Treasury at the port of New York caused by the resignation of Mr. Holahan are not likely to be filled during the present Administration. They are lucrative offices, the former especially so, but it is represented as almost impossible to secure persons competent for the duties who are willing to accept the places. This is due to an impression that the tenure of officials appointed to these offices at the present time is apt to be very brief. In the mean time Col. Ayres has been charged with the duties of the Special Agent's office, and in case the services of a bank examiner are required in New York before a regular appointment is made an examiner from one of the neighboring States could be sent there. Bank Examiner at New York caused by the

The Senate engrossing clerks worked hard all day endeavoring to complete the Senate's substitute for the Mills Tariff bill so as to get substitute for the Mills Tariff bill so as to get it back to the House before adjournment, but they were unable to do so. It will be ready to go to the House to-morrow. When it reaches there Speaker Carlisle will refer it to the Committee on Ways and Means proforms, unless objection is made, and then the House will have to determine what shall be done with it. Democrats are discussing three plans to deal with the bill—I. to let it die in committee: 2, to report it back to the House and let it die on the calendar: 3, to let it go to conference. No course of action has been decided upon, however, and there is talk of a caucus. The concurrent resolution for the counting of the electoral vote was taken up and passed in the Senate to-day. It provides that the two Houses of Congress shall assemble in the hall of the House of Representatives on Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 1 P. M., and the President of the Senate shall be the presiding officer; that two persons be appointed tellers, one on the part of the Senate and one on the part of the House of Representatives, to make a list of the votes as they shall be declared; that the result shall be delivered to the President of the Senate, who shall announce the state of the vote and the persons elected to the two Houses, which shall be deemed a declaration of the persons elected President and Vice-President of the United States, and, together with a list of the votes, be entered on the journals of the two Houses. in the Senate to-day. RACE WAR IN THE COAL FIELDS. Hungarian and Italian Laborers Trying to Exterminate Each Other.

SHENANDOAH, Jan. 23 .- A sanguinary war, which threatens the annihilation of a part of the Hungarian and Italian population, has broken out between the two races here. Nearly a thousand of these foreigners are employed in the Mahonov valley on contracts designated as strippings," i. e., where the surface is being removed from the coal beds. The Italians are nearly all desperate characters. They live in shantles erected at the works, grouped to-The Huns live in the same fashion, and both consume large quantities of fighting whiskey. There has been bad feeling between them for months, and ar .pen rupture was reached yesterday when the superintendent at the Shenandoah City stripping discharged half a dozen Italians. When he did so their countrymen quit work and demanded that they be rein-

Italians. When he did so their countrymen quit work and demanded that they be reinstated, and that if it was necessary to reduce the force Hungarians be dismissed. The superintendent was obdurate, and the result was the Italians formed a line of battle and drove the Hungarians out of the pits. A police force was summoned to the scene and beace restored, but the Hungarians refused to leave the shantles in which they had taken refuge, and, the Italians maintaining a threatening attitude during the night, it was found necessary to send a force of police with Winchester rilles to protect them.

Information of the fight at Shenandoah City colliery reached another settlement at Barry's station, two miles away, last evening. At the latter place there are about 200 Hungarians and Italians. During the night the Italians made a raid onta Hungarian shanty which contained fifty men, and for more than an hour a fierce battle, in which knives, clubs, and other primitive weapons were used, was waged. During the progress of the battle the Italians fired the shanty, and the factions finished the fight in the light of the flames, which was mean time consuming one of their number, who was so badly beaten that he was not able to leave the building. Several others were badly beaten, but the exact number of the wounded is not known. The remains of the cremated Hungarian were dug from the ruins this morning. The legs and arms were burned from the charred trunk, which lay at the scene of the Coroner to take charge of it, None of those engaged in the fight last night have been arrested. Another outbreak is expected before morning.

No Bridge Wanted.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23 .- At the annual meeting of the Lake Carriers' Association to-day it was decided to oppose all attempts to bridge the Detroit River, on the ground that the traffic of the river is greater than that of any other waterway in the world and that a tunnel can be constructed.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 23. To-day's market presented an interesting feature that was probably not appreciated by the average observer. There was not much doing on the Stock Exchange, and the effective transactions were in the main for account of professional bear operators. Naturally THE UN does not enjoy the confidence of this class of dealers, still it has excellent information that to-day's sales were based upon advices received by leading bear operators from certain railroad officials at Chicago predicting that the effort that is to be made to-morrow to complete the Inter-State Commerce Railway Association will probably result in failure or at least develop important obstacles to the success of the work. The advices from Chicago that were made public to-day indicated a decidedly bearish sentiment at that centre. It will be mighty who the railroad President is that has informed his speculative friends in this city of his contemplated efforts to prevent the formation of the new traffic association. His associates being hereby forewarned of his intentions may be the more readily able to detect them and prevent their execution.

In our judgment no serious objection to the completion of the Association can be maintained by any one. Very little has been heard the last ten days or so of the pressure that brought the recalcitrant Presidents to terms at Mr. Morgan's house. But that pressure still

The Committee on Stock List of the New York Stock Exchange has ruled that after Jan. 24 "the signature to the assignment upon a certificate of stock must be technically correct, i.e., it must correspond with the name as written upon the face of the corrificate in every particular, without alteration or enlargement, or any change whatever." Of course this does not apply in cases where transfer books are now closed, but will obtain immediately upon the opening of such books. A good many members were inclined to criticise this eminently proper ruling, but their objections to changing the form of their signatures is effectually disposed of by the suggestion of the committee that "parties should have certificates filled in as they intend to endorse them."
